

INSPIRE AWARENESS AND UNDERSTANDING

Powerful films spark meaningful conversations that build more cohesive teams and communities.

ODYSSEY IMPACT®

We understand the power of storytelling to help shift perspectives, build bridges and foster empathy. Let us help you use film to support, prepare, and inspire the healers and caregivers in your community.

Welcome!

Our front line healers are there for us everyday, bringing comfort and healing to our ever increasingly traumatic lives – but who heals the healers? Odyssey Impact wanted to create a resource to better support and prepare these hero's who tirelessly serve others yet who also need care while they work hard to create new solutions for us all in their communities, schools, places of work and worship.

Our award winning Healing The Healers video series and support materials is a powerful solution to better understand, support and address the modern day realities of violence and pain. Packed with wisdom and practical steps to take, the viewer hears intimate conversations between dedicated faith leaders who openly discuss and large challenges and poignant stories of how they navigated the many complexities of mass trauma, domestic violence, and youth mental health. Short episodes making up the three part series are brave, honest and touching, with moments of humor and hope that are as inspiring as the courage they each express. Accompanying written materials from leading experts uplift strategies for identifying red flags, how to be better prepared and cultivate safe places of worship and community while taking into account the dynamics of race, gender, and multi-faith traditions.

Whether it is working through communal trauma, intimate partner and domestic violence, or youth mental health, Healing the Healers is a powerful tool that provides support and inspiration for leaders and victims turned survivors alike and anyone who is a champion and leader of others who wishes to learn how to better serve the whole, together.

HEALING THE HEALERS

Series 1:

Communal Trauma

COMMUNAL TRAUMA

GUN VIOLENCE

MASS SHOOTINGS

On December 12, 2014, the life of Rev. Matthew Crebbin, Senior Minister of the Newtown Congregational Church, his congregation, and his community were changed forever when a gunman walked into Sandy Hook Elementary School and murdered twenty children and six adults. For Rev. Crebbin, unimaginable grief was laid at his doorstep as he was called upon to heal his congregation, a situation for which he and his fellow Newtown clergy were unprepared. And once the initial shock and grief wore off, Rev. Crebbin began to wonder what his healing journey might look like five, ten or fifteen years down the road. The sacred space of healing took on a new perspective, and Odyssey Impact joined with Matt on this journey to create Series 1 focusing on faith leaders healing through communal trauma.

Series 2:

Domestic Violence

INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE

DOMESTIC ABUSE

HEALING FOR SURVIVORS

This timely video series includes 4 episodes of filmed peer-to-peer conversations between faith leaders sensitively navigating the complexities surrounding domestic violence and faith. Each episode encourages faith leaders and spiritual care providers with strategies for cultivating safe houses of worship and care contexts for victims and survivors, highlighting the dynamics of race, gender, and faith traditions. Featured faith leaders include survivors of domestic violence, and leaders with experience constructing systemic care solutions for all affected. A written guide accompanies the series, produced in partnership with leading experts and organizations. This series brings emerging insights and themed care strategies to every leader, educator or care provider responding to domestic violence.

Series 3:

Youth Mental Health

MENTAL HEALTH

STOP THE STIGMA

SUICIDE PREVENTION

This third film series from the Telly Award-winning Healing the Healers project focuses on the urgent need for faith leaders to address the rising needs of youth mental health. This three part video series with educational toolkit focus on breaking the silence and stigma surrounding youth mental health and addresses issues specific to COVID/pandemic, isolation, suicide, trauma, the effects on youth of social and racial justice movements, and the needs particular to BIPOC and LGBTQ+ communities. Also addressed is the growing loss of confidence in institutionalized religion, as well as the ways youth are leaning into rituals of faith for comfort and healing.

“ It is seldom that the pastors voice out their anguish/pain. The importance of paying attention to the wounds of the healers is healing in itself.”

— Caroline A. Santos, attendee at the International Conference on Pastoral Care and Counseling (ICPCC) in Malaysia, 2019
